arXiv Business Planning Update

January 2012

Governance Planning Grant from Simons Foundation

As announced in our October'11 update, the Simons Foundation has provided a $60,000 planning grant to support the development of a governance model that will guide arXiv's transition from an exclusive initiative of Cornell University Library (CUL) to a collaboratively governed, community supported resource. To discuss how to achieve this goal, we will hold two planning meetings in February 2012—one in the US and a second in Europe—with representatives from the library and science communities. During the planning meetings, we will seek advice on arXiv's organizational structure and operating principles. We will also discuss a collaborative business model that continues to engage the libraries and research labs. The planning grant will be carried out between September 2011 and April 2012. We will share the outcomes of these meetings and make an effort to gather broader input during March 2012.

News from the Operations Front

We continue working with CERN to migrate arXiv to use the Invenio platform for our discovery and access interface. The decision to adopt Invenio was the result of a critical look at arXiv's technology infrastructure, undertaken last year as part of our overall sustainability planning. The move to Invenio will facilitate improved collaboration with our partners at NASA ADS and INSPIRE, and reduce the maintenance burden of in-house code. In the coming year, we expect to expand our programming staff by 0.5 FTE in order to assist with this effort and other current needs. We now anticipate the transition to Invenio, which will include a number of user interface enhancements, to be completed in the first half of 2013. This timeline has been revised outward by 6 months because of unforeseen difficulties in migration and to coordinate with the Invenio team's development schedule.

On the user support side, our work with Paul Ginsparg to transition his moderation oversight role into regular arXiv administration processes managed by the Library was set back somewhat by the loss of Thorsten Schwander, who accepted a new position at CERN as the manager of INSPIRE. Thorsten has worked with arXiv for over fifteen years, maintaining and improving the TeX system much of that time, as well as working on the arXiv API and the SWORD deposit interface. Since mid-2011, Thorsten has relieved Paul Ginsparg of many routine oversight activities, which has helped the Library better understand those activities and how to transition them into the Library's arXiv operations. Thorsten's departure has required that we augment our user support staffing, and we are now seeking to fill a new position. The arXiv Senior Administrator will oversee and manage the daily user support and moderation activities associated with the administration of arXiv.

Institutional Contributions Update

In 2011, 133 institutions in 18 countries have pledged their support, totaling $424,000 in contributions. We gratefully acknowledge the contributions of supporting institutions: arXiv 2010 Supporters and arXiv 2011 Supporters. The budget information for arXiv is available here: CY2010 expenses and revenues, CY2011 expenses and revenues.

We have a budget estimate for 2012 up on the arXiv website. You will notice that the annual expenses have increased due to our need to add a new user support person and a half-time programmer. We have just completed performing an analysis of the 2011 download activity in order to determine the top 200 constituents. There are not any significant variations between the 2010 and 2011. Next week, we will contact each institution on the list (or their representative) regarding 2012 support. As a new feature, we will provide a breakdown of institutional downloads by subject area (Astrophysics, HEP, Mathematics, etc.). Multiple institutions have requested this level of information and we have updated our analytics to collect and provide it. We welcome your suggestions for additional metrics.

Looking Ahead

Established in January 2010, the current institutional contribution model is a 3-year interim strategy for 2010-2012 with the goal of developing a long-term business plan that provides a strategic framework by Summer 2012. The voluntary institutional contribution model targets pledges from 200 libraries and research laboratories worldwide that represent the heaviest institutional users of arXiv. The short-term contribution model has been successful and with Cornell's contributions has resulted in sufficient funds to cover all direct expenses for 2010 and 2011 as well as creating a contingency fund. Based on the outcomes of the February planning meetings, we expect to announce a model for 2013-2017 by June 2012.

Communication

The arXiv sustainability initiative's website is <http://arxiv.org/help/support>, including the quarterly updates. You are also welcome to send your questions and input to support@arxiv.org. We have an email list for sharing updates about arXiv support efforts. If you received this update directly, you are already subscribed. Others wishing to receive quarterly updates via email are encouraged to join the list. Instructions are included below this update.

In November 2011, we held three conference calls and had an opportunity to talk with 31 colleagues on various issues related to arXiv. We will hold three open conference calls in February (to accommodate different time zones) and invite you to join one:

- February 27, Monday, 4pm EST
- February 28, Tuesday, 6am EST
- February 29, Wednesday, noon, EST

We are very interested in understanding different perspectives on our business modeling efforts and welcome suggestions, criticisms, and encouragement! Please register for these conference calls at: https://cornell.qualtrics.com/SE/?SID=SV\_exHO0ujL6C6kiji

We thank all our supporters and welcome questions and suggestions.

arXiv support announcement email list

This is an announcement-only list. We anticipate 4-6 posting per year. To join:

Send an email message to: arxiv-support-updates-L-request@cornell.edu Leave the subject line blank. The body of the message should be a single word: join

To ask questions about arXiv support issues or to send comments, please address email to support@arxiv.org.
